Profile

As a dedicated Frontend Developer, I bring expertise in Angular, TypeScript, HTML, and CSS to deliver robust and user-friendly web applications. Collaborating closely with cross-functional teams, I have successfully implemented responsive designs and interactive features that enhance user experience.

My proficiency in Angular includes building custom components, integrating APIs, and optimizing application performance through efficient code practices.

Additionally, my strong grasp of TypeScript ensures type-safe development and seamless integration of backend services. With a keen eye for detail and a passion for clean, maintainable code, I continuously strive to exceed project goals and deliver high-quality solutions.
